Fulton Financial Corporation (the Company) and Mr. John M. Bond have rescinded a May 2006 amendment (the May Amendment) of his 2003, 2004 and 2005 stock option agreements with the Company (Stock Option Agreements). Contrary to the intent of the Company and Mr. Bond, the May Amendment could have been construed as a change in the terms of the options covered by the Stock Option Agreements. The Corporation and Mr. Bond have, in lieu of the May Amendment, amended the Stock Option Agreements to conform their language to the language of the board resolutions under which the options covered by the Stock Option Agreements were initially granted. The terms of these options, as initially granted, have not been changed or modified. As conformed, the Stock Option Agreements permit the options covered by the agreements to be exercised within a limited period of time after Mr. Bond ceases to serve as a Key Person which is defined in the stock option plan to include an employee, director or consultant. A copy of the conforming amendment is attached hereto as Exhibit 10.1
