PART III NARRATIVE

State below in reasonable detail why Forms 10-K, 20-F, 11-K, 10-Q, 10-D, N-SAR, N-CSR, or the transition report or portion thereof, could not be filed within the prescribed time period.

We, in conjunction with our independent registered public accountants, KPMG LLP, are currently in the process of evaluating the accounting treatment associated with our interest rate swaps. Currently, the interest rate swaps are accounted for as hedging instruments in accordance with SFAS No. 133, Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities, as amended by SFAS No. 138, Accounting for Certain Derivative Instruments and Certain Hedging Activities-an amendment of FASB Statement No. 133 and SFAS No. 137, Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities. Accordingly, the fair value of our interest rate swap agreements is adjusted quarterly with the changes recorded as deferred gains or losses in our consolidated balance sheet with the offset recorded in accumulated other comprehensive income, net of tax. The difference between interest earned and the interest obligation results in a monthly settlement, which is reclassified from accumulated other comprehensive income to the statement of operations as a component of flooring interest expense. The resulting cash settlement reduces the amount of deferred gains and losses.

If it is determined that the swaps do not qualify as hedging instruments, we would be required to recognize the change in the fair value as a component of earnings on a quarterly basis. In addition, the accumulated other comprehensive income of $2.3 million at September 30, 2006 would be reversed to earnings.

Due to the complicated nature of these provisions, we were unable to finalize the accounting treatment in a timely manner. The impact of this evaluation, if any, on our third quarter 2006 results announced on October 31, 2006 and on previous periods still needs to be determined. Accordingly, we were unable to file our Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended September 30, 2006 within the prescribed time period without unreasonable effort or expense.

Yes No

If so, attach an explanation of the anticipated change, both narratively and quantitatively, and, if appropriate, state the reasons why a reasonable estimate of the results cannot be made.

Without consideration for any adjustment, if any, required for a change in our accounting method for interest rate swaps, we expect our net income to be lower in the three and nine-month periods ended September 30, 2006 compared to the same periods of 2005 due to higher operating expenses and interest expense. For further information, we incorporate by this reference our earnings press release attached as an exhibit to our Form 8-K filed October 31, 2006.
