- disruption from the TNP transaction making it more difficult to maintain relationships with customers, employees, suppliers or other third parties,
- conditions in the financial markets relevant to the proposed TNP acquisition,
- interest rates,
- weather,
- water supply,
- fuel costs,
- availability of fuel supplies,
- risk management and commodity risk transactions,
- seasonality and other changes in supply and demand in the market for electric power,
- wholesale power prices,
- market liquidity,
- the competitive environment in the electric and natural gas industries,
- the performance of generating units and transmission systems,
- the ability of the Company to secure long-term power sales,
- the risks associated with the completion of the construction of the Luna Energy Facility, including construction delays and unanticipated cost overruns,
- state and federal regulatory and legislative decisions and actions,
- the cost and outcome of legal proceedings,
- changes in applicable accounting principles, and
- the performance of state, regional and national economies.

PNM Resources Enhances Dividend Policy

PNM Resources Forecasts 2005 Earnings

(ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.) - The Board of Directors of PNM Resources, Inc. (NYSE:PNM) today approved a 15.6 percent increase in its common stock dividend for an indicated annual rate of $0.74 per share.

PNM Resources is also issuing earnings guidance for 2005. The company estimates that ongoing earnings, without any one-time gains or charges, or the results of the pending acquisition of TNP Enterprises, Inc. (TNP), will range between $1.40 and $1.55 per share in 2005. This compares to a 2004 earnings range of $1.35 to $1.45. PNM Resources plans to announce 2004 fourth-quarter and full-year earnings on Feb. 22, 2005. Additionally, PNM Resources plans to revise its earnings guidance to include TNP's results after the close of the transaction.

The increase in dividend is based on strong 2004 earnings and cash flows as well as projected 2005 earnings growth. As a result of this strong growth and the stability of PNM Resources' earnings profile, the Board of Directors has targeted a payout ratio of 50 to 60 percent of consolidated earnings-revised from 50 to 60 percent of utility earnings. "The change is the result of the success the company has had in providing stable earnings from its wholesale electric and regulated gas and electric businesses," said PNM Resources Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer Jeff Sterba. "We also intend to review our dividend rate again after the closing of the TNP transaction to include the earnings and cash flow accretion anticipated in the transaction."

The dividend increase raises the next quarterly dividend to $0.185 per share, payable Feb. 18, 2005 to PNM Resources shareholders of record as of Feb. 1, 2005. "We have reviewed our dividend policy changes and long-term forecast with both S&P and Moody's and anticipate they will maintain our stable outlook," said PNM Resources Senior Vice President and Chief Financial Officer John R. Loyack. "We also believe that our free cash flow will be strong enough to fund both the change in dividend policy and business expansion opportunities."

Volatility Factors Affecting 2005 Earnings Performance

Earnings variability within the expected range of $1.40 to $1.55 for 2005 will be affected by a number of factors, including:

- Prices and liquidity in the wholesale power market and the company's ability to expand its portfolio of long-term sales contracts in that market.
- Weather in New Mexico over the course of the year and growth in PNM's retail electric and gas utility in New Mexico.
- The performance of PNM generating plants and fuel costs for those plants.
- Management's continued ability to efficiently manage operating costs throughout the company.

These and other significant variables underlying the company's current 2005 earnings forecast are discussed in more detail in the investor section of PNM.com.

Capital Forecast

PNM Resources estimates capital spending for the period 2005 through 2009 to be $730 million, with capital spending for 2005 of $192 million. The capital plan includes expenditures necessary to complete the recently purchased Luna Energy Facility, construct a new transmission line to serve Santa Fe, N.M., and improve infrastructure to serve higher growth rates in PNM's electric business.

PNM Resources is an energy holding company based in Albuquerque, New Mexico. PNM, the principal subsidiary of PNM Resources, serves about 460,000 natural gas customers and 405,000 electric customers in New Mexico. The company also sells power on the wholesale market in the Western U.S. PNM Resources stock is traded primarily on the NYSE under the symbol PNM.
