We could receive up to $1,610,400 if the January 2005 warrants are exercised by the selling shareholders. PROSPECTUS SUMMARY

Because this is a summary, it may not contain all information which may be important to you. Streicher Mobile Fueling, Inc.

We provide commercial mobile fueling, bulk fueling, lubricant packaging, distribution and sales and fuel management out-sourcing services to businesses that operate all size fleets of vehicles and equipment, including governmental agencies, utilities, trucking companies, bus lines, hauling and delivery services, courier services, construction companies and others, as well as heavy and ultra-heavy haul transportation services. Our specialized truck fleet delivers fuel to customers’ locations on a regularly scheduled or as needed basis, refueling vehicles and equipment and re-supplying fixed-site bulk storage facilities, and also distributes a variety of petroleum products and lubricants. Our patented proprietary electronic fuel tracking control system is used to measure, record and track fuel dispensed to each vehicle and tank storage fueled at a customer location, allowing verification of the amount and type of fuel delivered and providing customers fleet fuel data for management analysis and tax reporting. Our heavy haul fleet truck and trailer units provide short and long distance specialized heavy and ultra-heavy hauling transportation services to customers requiring the movement of over-sized loads of equipment and heavy manufactured products.

We believe that our mobile fueling and fuel management services, which have historically generated substantially all of our revenue, provide numerous advantages to our customers, including:

- lower labor and administrative costs associated with fueling vehicles
 - centralized control over fuel inventories and usage
 - tax, utilization and other reporting benefits
- elimination of costs and the risk of environmental liabilities associated with on-site fuel storage and dispensing facilities
 - lower risk of employee theft of fuel
 - emergency fuel availability and
- the elimination of security risks associated with off-site fueling by employees.

Our recent acquisition of Shank Services, a provider of commercial fueling, lubricants and heavy haul transportation services with operations in Houston, Dallas/Forth Worth, Austin and San Antonio, Texas, has provided us with additional commercial fuel sales, both for off-road applications such as construction, agriculture, marine and rail as well as for over-the-road trucking operations. The acquisition also brought us into the business service lines of bulk fuel distributing, packaging and distributing petroleum lubricants and into the short and long distance specialized heavy and ultra-heavy hauling transportation market. We presently conduct operations in California, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Washington, D.C. and are seeking to increase market penetration in our existing service areas and to develop operations in new markets.

We are a Florida corporation. Our principal executive office is located at 800 West Cypress Creek Road, Suite 580, Ft. Lauderdale, Florida 33309, and our phone number is (954) 308-4200.

RISK FACTORS

You should carefully read and consider the following factors and other information included or incorporated by reference in this prospectus before investing in our common stock.

Losses from Operations; Debt Service; Adverse Economic Conditions. We incurred net losses for the fiscal years ended June 30, 2004, 2003 and 2002 and for the nine months ended March 31, 2005. In order for us to earn profits in the future, we need to increase mobile fueling volumes at profitable margins, successfully integrate and manage acquired businesses, control costs and generate sufficient cash flow to support our working capital and debt service requirements. There is no assurance that our management will be able to accomplish our business plan or achieve profitable operations, or that we will be able to raise additional capital to support our current or future operations, to fund additional acquisitions or to cover debt service shortfalls during any business downturns. Even if capital is available, it may not be available on terms which are acceptable to us. While our acquisition of the heavy haul transportation and fuel and lubricant distribution business of Shank Services diversified our business, we remain susceptible to adverse market conditions in the mobile fueling industry generally and those affecting our own mobile fueling customer base. In addition, all of our business remains subject to the adverse impact of negative economic conditions, both generally and in specific customer industries, such as transportation, construction, agriculture, marine and rail. There is no assurance that we will be able to succeed in the face of any such adverse conditions.

Trading Market for Our Common Stock; Impact of Short Term Results. While our common stock has recently traded at significantly higher volumes than in the past, for most of our history it has been thinly traded, making it difficult for shareholders to sell shares at a predictable price or at all. The recent increase in trading volume has not, however, significantly reduced the volatility in the market price of our common stock. Accordingly, shareholders may still encounter significant short term variations in the market price of the stock on account of factors beyond our control. In addition, our quarterly operating results, changes in general conditions in the economy, the financial markets or other developments affecting us could also cause the market price of our common stock to fluctuate, making it difficult for shareholders to sell shares at predictable prices or times.

Risks Associated With Growth Strategy. We believe that our future profitability depends on continued growth but there is no assurance that we will be able to achieve that growth or that it will actually make us profitable. A significant component of our future growth strategy is to increase revenues and improve earnings by expanding our mobile fueling and other services into new locations and acquiring complementary business lines. We intend to improve financial performance by controlling our general and administrative costs and achieving certain economies of scale while increasing revenues from such new or expanded business service lines. There is no assurance, however, that we will be able to identify and acquire additional companies or assets or that, once acquired, we will succeed in operating and managing the acquisitions profitably or in integrating them into our current operations with the efficiencies we expect. Similarly, expansion of our existing businesses into new markets will depend on our ability to demonstrate the benefits of our existing products and services to potential new customers; successfully establish and operate new locations; hire, train and retain qualified management, operating, marketing and sales personnel; finance capital expenditures and working capital requirements; secure reliable sources of product supply on a timely basis and on commercially acceptable credit terms; and successfully manage growth by effectively supervising operations, controlling costs and maintaining appropriate quality controls. In August 2004, we expanded our mobile fueling services into the Pennsylvania market for the first time. In February 2005, we acquired Shank Services, a Houston, Texas based provider of commercial fuel, petroleum lubricants distribution and sales and heavy haul transportation services. Shank Services, which conducts its operations in our subsidiary, SMF Services, Inc., generates revenues from commercial fueling operations, the distribution of petroleum lubricants and heavy haul transportation services. There can be no assurance that we will be able to successfully continue to grow by acquisition or by expansion of our existing operations.

Integration of Acquisitions; Growth Strategy. With any significant acquisition, a corresponding effort is required to assimilate the operations, assets, financial and accounting practices and information systems, and to integrate key personnel, from the acquired business. Acquisitions may disrupt operations and divert management's attention from day-to-day operations. We may not realize the anticipated benefits of past or future acquisitions if some portion of the acquired operations, customers or employees do not transition effectively. In addition, our financial performance may suffer due to acquisition related costs or unanticipated liabilities, and if the culture of the acquired entity is not compatible with ours, employee morale may suffer, and employee turnover may increase. In addition, the value of our stock on trading markets may decrease on account of any of these factors or because those markets perceive that acquisitions are not appropriately priced. Whether we grow by acquisition or by expansion of existing operations, however, the successful execution of our future growth strategy is dependent on effective operational, financial and other internal systems, and the ability to attract, train, motivate, manage and retain our employees. If we are unable to manage growth effectively, our results of operations will be adversely affected.

Dependence on Key Personnel. Our future success will be largely dependent on the continued services and efforts of Richard E. Gathright, our President and Chief Executive Officer, and other key executive personnel. The loss of the services of Mr. Gathright or other key executive personnel could have a material adverse effect on our business and prospects. Our success and plans for future growth will also depend on our ability to attract and retain additional qualified management, operating, marketing, sales and financial personnel. There can be no assurance that we will be able to hire or retain such personnel on terms satisfactory to us. We have an employment agreement with Mr. Gathright which renews for an additional 12 months each year unless we or Mr. Gathright give prior written notice of non-renewal prior to the anniversary date. The Company does not have any key man life insurance on Mr. Gathright or any of its other key executive personnel.

Commodity Pricing; Effect on Profitability. Diesel fuel, lubricants and gasoline are commodities which are refined and distributed by numerous sources. We purchase the commodities delivered to our customers from multiple suppliers at daily market prices and in some cases qualify for certain discounts. We monitor prices and trends in each of our service markets on a daily basis and seek to purchase our supply at the lowest prices and under the most favorable terms. Commodity price risk is mitigated since we purchase and deliver most of our products daily and generally utilize cost-plus pricing when billing our customers. If we cannot continue to utilize cost-plus pricing when billing our customers, margins would likely decrease and a loss could be incurred. We have not engaged in derivatives or futures trading to hedge commodity price movements.

Risks Associated with Customer Concentration; Absence of Written Agreements. Although we provide services to numerous customers, a significant portion of our revenue is generated from a few of our larger customers. While we have formal, length of service written contracts with some of these larger customers, such agreements are not customary in our business and have not been entered into by us with the majority of our customers. As a result, most of our customers can terminate our relationship at any time and for any reason, and we can similarly discontinue providing products or services to any customer. We may discontinue service to a customer if changes in the service conditions or other factors cause us not to meet our minimum level of margins and rates, and the pricing or delivery arrangements cannot be re-negotiated. As a result of this customer concentration and the limited number of written agreements, our business, results of operations and financial condition could be materially adversely affected if one or more of our large customers were lost or if we were to experience a high rate of service terminations.

Competition. In our mobile fueling business, we compete with other mobile fueling service providers, including several regional companies and numerous small, independent operators who provide these services. We also compete with retail marketing where fleet operators have the option of fueling their own equipment at retail stations and other third-party service locations such as card lock facilities. Our heavy haul and ultra-heavy haul transportation business competes with other providers, including larger regional companies. Our lubricant and commercial fuel distribution business competes with numerous other large and small providers of similar services. Our ability to compete is dependent on numerous factors, including price, delivery dependability, credit terms, service locations and the quality of our customer service, including but not limited to reporting and invoicing services. There can be no assurance that we will be able to continue to compete successfully as a result of these or other factors.

Operating Risks May Not Be Covered by Insurance. Our operations are subject to all of the operating hazards and risks normally incidental to handling, storing and transporting diesel fuel, gasoline and other petroleum products, which are classified as hazardous materials. We maintain insurance policies in such amounts and with such coverages and deductibles as we believe are reasonable and prudent. However, there can be no assurance that such insurance will be adequate to protect us from liabilities and expenses that may arise from claims for personal and property damage arising in the ordinary course of business or that such levels of insurance will be maintained by us or will be available at economical prices.

Governmental Regulation. Our operations are affected by numerous federal, state and local laws, regulations and ordinances, including those relating to protection of the environment and worker safety. Various federal, state and local agencies have broad powers under these laws, regulations and ordinances. In particular, the operation of our fleet and our transportation of petroleum products are subject to extensive regulation by the U.S. Department of Transportation (“DOT”) under the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Act (“FMCSA”) and the Hazardous Materials Transportation Act (“HMTA”). We are subject to regulatory and legislative changes that can affect the economics of the industry by requiring changes in operating practices or influencing the demand for, and the cost of providing, our services. In addition, we depend on the supply of diesel fuel, gasoline and lubricants from the oil and gas industry and, therefore, are affected by changing taxes, price controls and other laws and regulations generally relating to the oil and gas industry. In addition, the additional regulatory burdens imposed on all publicly held companies by the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 and rules promulgated thereunder by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Nasdaq Stock Market, particularly the assessment of internal controls mandated by Section 404 of the Act, are likely to impose new and substantial administrative, legal and accounting costs on the Company which could have a material adverse affect on the Company and its results of operations. We cannot determine the extent to which our future operations and earnings may be affected by new legislation, new regulations or changes in existing regulations.

The technical requirements of these laws and regulations are becoming increasingly expensive, complex and stringent. These laws may impose penalties or sanctions for damages to natural resources or threats to public health and safety. Such laws and regulations may also expose us to liability for the conduct of or conditions caused by others, or for our acts that were in compliance with all applicable laws at the time such acts were performed. Sanctions for noncompliance may include revocation of permits, corrective action orders, administrative or civil penalties and criminal prosecution. Certain environmental laws provide for joint and several liability for remediation of spills and releases of hazardous substances. In addition, we may be subject to claims alleging personal injury or property damage as a result of alleged exposure to hazardous substances, as well as damage to natural resources.

Although we believe that we are in substantial compliance with existing laws and regulations, there can be no assurance that substantial costs for compliance will not be incurred in the future. There could be an adverse affect upon our operations if there were any substantial violations of these rules and regulations. Moreover, it is possible that other developments, such as stricter environmental laws, regulations and enforcement policies thereunder, could result in additional, presently unquantifiable, costs or liabilities to us.

PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION

General

As used in this prospectus, the term “selling shareholders” includes the pledgees, donees, transferees and their successors in interest that receive the shares as a gift, partnership distribution or other non-sale related transfer.

Transactions. The selling shareholders may offer and sell their shares of common stock in one or more of the following transactions:

- on the Nasdaq SmallCap Market,
- in the over-the-counter market,
- in privately negotiated transactions,
- for settlement of short sales, or through long sales, options or transactions involving cross or block trades,
- by pledges to secure debts and other obligations, or
- in a combination of any of these transactions.

Prices. The selling shareholders may sell their shares of common stock at any of the following prices:

- fixed prices which may be changed,

Direct Sales; Agents, Dealers and Underwriters. The selling shareholders may effect transactions by selling their shares of common stock in any of the following ways:

- directly to purchasers, or
- to or through agents, brokers, dealers or underwriters designated from time to time.

Agents, dealers or underwriters may receive compensation in the form of underwriting discounts, concessions or commissions from the selling shareholders and/or the purchasers of shares for whom they act as agent or to whom they sell as principals, or both. The selling shareholders and any agents, dealers or underwriters that act in connection with the sale of shares might be deemed to be “underwriters” within the meaning of Section 2(11) of the Securities Act, and any discount or commission received by them and any profit on the resale of shares as principal might be deemed to be underwriting discounts or commissions under the Securities Act. Because the selling shareholders might be deemed to be underwriters, the selling shareholders will be subject to the prospectus delivery requirements of the Securities Act.

Each selling shareholder will be subject to applicable provisions of the Exchange Act and the associated rules and regulations under the Exchange Act, including Regulation M, which provisions may limit the timing of purchases and sales of shares of our common stock by the selling shareholders.

In addition, any shares that qualify for sale pursuant to Rule 144 under the Securities Act may be sold under Rule 144 rather than pursuant to this prospectus.

Supplements. To the extent required, we will set forth in a supplement to this prospectus filed with the SEC the number of shares to be sold, the purchase price and public offering price, the name or names of any agent, dealer or underwriter, and any applicable commissions or discounts with respect to a particular offering. In particular, upon being notified by a selling shareholder that a donee or pledgee intends to sell more than 500 shares, we will file a supplement to this prospectus.

State Securities Law. Under the securities laws of some states, the selling shareholders may only sell the shares in those states through registered or licensed brokers or dealers. In addition, in some states the selling shareholders may not sell the shares unless they have been registered or qualified for sale in that state or an exemption from registration or qualification is available and is satisfied.

Expenses; Indemnification. We will receive up to $1,610,400 upon exercise of the warrants by the selling shareholders but we will not receive any of the proceeds from the sale of the common stock sold by the selling shareholders. We will bear all expenses related to the registration of this offering but will not pay for any underwriting commissions, fees or discounts, if any. We have agreed to indemnify the selling shareholders against some civil liabilities, including some liabilities which may arise under the Securities Act.
