(1) Discontinue receiving orders from public sectors and orders of constructing condominium

Profitability of construction business in public works related fields, which is a mainstay of Kubota Construction, has deteriorated due to declining demands and intensifying competition. 3. Background

(1) Changing business environment and deteriorated profitability

The market for Kubota Construction shrank considerably reflecting the fact that construction investment of public sector decreased by 50% compared with 10 years before, which is a main market for Kubota Construction. Due to fierce competition together with shrinking market, sale of Kubota Construction declined to half of ¥47 billion which was highest sales recorded in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1995. The profitability also deteriorated and it is forecasted to have deficits for consecutive 5 years.

(2) Occurrence of a misconduct of obstructing competitive bidding

Kubota Construction started a revival plan in April 2005 as a countermeasure to the deteriorated earnings, which included decreasing the number of employees and reduction of costs and expenditures.

However last July, soon after starting the plan, the general manager of Kubota Construction was arrested on a charge of obstructing competitive bidding of constructions which were ordered by Tokyo Metropolitan Government Bureau of Waterworks. Because of this scandal, many public agencies stopped placing orders with Kubota Construction.

The fact-finding committee has already investigated the circumstances of the misconduct and the general manager concerned will be fired at the end of this March according to an internal rule.

4. Financial outlook

The Company's consolidated financial forecasts for the year ending in March 2006 remain unchanged from the released forecasts on February 2, 2006.
