Re: Global Industries Merger with Technip

Dear []:

We are pleased to provide an update on the status of our planned merger with Technip. Regulatory approvals required for the merger have been received from all applicable governmental entities and we have scheduled a shareholder vote to take place on 30 November 2011. The closing is currently scheduled to take place on 1 December 2011.

Integration planning is continuing to prepare for a smooth transition in all operations around the world. While the specifics of the new organization will appropriately be announced by Technip in the future, we can share that the intention remains to retain key staff. Planned centers of excellence for Pipeline S-lay, Heavy Lift and Diving will continue to provide innovative support for our current and future clients.

The actual form of the merger is for Global Industries to merge with a Technip subsidiary and for Global Industries to be the surviving entity. Consequently, all obligations of Global Industries remain in force.

An indication of the robust synergies resulting from the merger is the increase in tendering activity we are beginning to experience due to new opportunities to bring Global Industries assets to support ongoing and prospective projects for Technip, and vice versa.

In closing, it is my privilege to express the appreciation of the entire Global Industries family for the support and confidence you have placed in us to serve your offshore development needs over our long and successful past. Our capable and experienced staff looks forward to supporting your future requirements with an even wider portfolio of expertise and assets in the exciting times ahead.

Sincerely,

John B. Reed
Chief Executive Officer
