Economic review

The U.S. economy continued to grow over the six months ended November 30, 2013 (the reporting period), but the pace was mixed. Looking back, U.S. gross domestic product (GDP growth, as reported by the U.S. Department of Commerce, was 1.1% during the first quarter of 2013. GDP growth in the second quarter then improved to 2.5%. This was partially due to increases in exports and non-residential fixed investments, along with a smaller decline in federal government spending versus the previous quarter. The U.S. Department of Commerce s final reading for third quarter 2013 GDP growth, released after the reporting period ended, was 4.1%. Stronger growth was driven, in part, by an increase in private inventory investment, a deceleration in imports and accelerating state and local government spending.

The U.S. job market improved during the reporting period, although unemployment remained elevated from a historical perspective. When the period began, unemployment, as reported by the U.S. Department of Labor, was 7.6%. Unemployment then declined to 7.4% in July, 7.3% in August and 7.2% in September 2013. After rising to 7.3% in October, unemployment then fell to 7.0% in November, its lowest reading since November 2008. Falling unemployment during the period was partially due to a decline in the workforce participation rate, which was 63% in November, close to its lowest level since 1978.

While sales of existing-homes have declined in recent months given rising mortgage rates, home prices continued to move higher. According to the National Association of Realtors (NAR), existing-home sales fell 4.3% on a seasonally adjusted basis in November 2013 versus the previous month and were 1.2% lower than in November 2012. However, the NAR reported that the median existing-home price for all housing types was $196,300 in November 2013, up 9.4% from November 2012. The inventory of homes available for sale in November 2013 was 0.9% lower than the previous month at a 5.1 month supply at the current sales pace and was 5.0% higher than in November 2012.

The manufacturing sector expanded throughout the reporting period. Based on the Institute for Supply Management s Purchasing Managers Index (PMÏ, after expanding the prior five months, the PMI fell to 49.0 in May 2013. (a reading below 50 indicates a contraction, whereas a reading above 50 indicates an expansion). However, this was a short-term setback, as the PMI rose over the next six months and was 57.3 in November, the best reading since April 2011.

Market review

Q. How did the Federal Reserve Board (Fedii respond to the economic environment?

A. The Fed took a number of actions as it sought to meet its dual mandate of fostering maximum employment and price stability. As has been the case since December 2008, the Fed kept the federal funds rate<sup>iv</sup> at a historically low range between zero and 0.25%. At its meeting in December 2012, the Fed announced that it would continue purchasing $40 billion per month of agency mortgage-backed securities (MBS), as well as initially purchasing $45 billion per month of longer-term Treasuries. At its meeting that ended on June 19, 2013, the Fed did not make any material changes to its official policy statement. However, in a press conference following the meeting, Fed Chairman Bernanke said Committee currently anticipates that it would be appropriate to moderate the monthly pace of purchases later this year; and if the subsequent data remain broadly aligned with our current expectations for the economy, we would continue to reduce the pace of purchases in measured steps through the first half of next year, ending purchases around midyear. In a surprise to many investors, at its meeting that ended on September 18, 2013, the Fed did not taper its asset purchase program and said that it decided to await more evidence that progress will be sustained before adjusting the pace of its purchases. Fed Chairman Bernanke also brought up the potential for a partial government shutdown on October 1 and the debt ceiling debate as reasons for maintaining its current policy. As expected, at its meeting that concluded on October 30, 2013, the Fed maintained its asset purchase program. Finally, at the Fed s meeting that concluded on December 18, 2013, after the reporting period ended, the Fed announced that it would begin reducing its monthly asset purchases, saying In light of the cumulative progress toward maximum employment and the improvement in the outlook for labor market conditions, the Committee decided to modestly reduce the pace of its asset purchases. Beginning in January, the Committee will add to its holdings of agency mortgage-backed securities at a pace of $35 billion per month rather than $40 billion per month, and will add to its holdings of longer-term Treasury securities at a pace of $40 billion per month rather than $45 billion per month.

Q. What actions did international central banks take during the reporting period?

A. Given the economic challenges in the Eurozone, in September 2012, prior to the beginning of the reporting period, the European Central Bank ( ECB introduced its Outright Monetary Transactions ( OMT ) program. With the OMT program, the ECB can purchase an unlimited amount of bonds that are issued by troubled Eurozone countries, provided the countries formally ask to participate in the program and agree to certain conditions. In May 2013, the ECB cut rates from 0.75% to 0.50%. The ECB then lowered the rate to a new record low of 0.25% in November 2013. In other developed countries, the Bank of England kept rates on hold at 0.50% during the reporting period, as did Japan at a range of zero to 0.10%, its lowest level since 2006. In January 2013, the Bank of Japan announced that it would raise its target for annual inflation from 1% to 2%, and the Japanese government introduced a ¥10.3 trillion ($116 billion) stimulus package to support its economy. Elsewhere, the People s Bank of China kept rates on hold at 6.0%.

IV Western Asset Global High Income Fund Inc.

Q. Did Treasury yields trend higher or lower during the six months ended November 30, 2013?

A. Short-term Treasury yields edged lower, whereas long-term Treasury yields moved higher during the reporting period. When the period began, the yield on the two-year Treasury was 0.30%. It fell as low as 0.27% in mid-June 2013 and was as high as 0.52% on September 5, 2013, before ending the period at 0.28%. The yield on the ten-year Treasury began the period at 2.16%. Ten-year Treasuries reached a low of 2.08% on June 6, 2013 and peaked at 2.98% on September 5, 2013, before moving down to 2.75% at the end of the period.

Q. What factors impacted the spread sectors (non-Treasuries) during the reporting period?

A. Most spread sectors generated weak results during the reporting period. The spread sectors performed poorly during the first month of the period amid sharply rising interest rates given the Fed s indications that it may begin tapering its asset purchase program sooner than previously anticipated. Most spread sectors then rallied in July 2013 amid improving investor demand. However, the spread sectors again weakened in August, before strengthening in September and October after the Fed chose not to taper its asset purchase program. The spread sectors then generated mixed results in November. The overall bond market, as measured by the Barclays U.S. Aggregate Index<sup>vi</sup>, fell 0.56% during the six months ended November 30, 2013.

Q. How did the high-yield market perform over the six months ended November 30, 2013?

A. The U.S. high-yield bond market was one of the few spread sectors to generate a positive return during the reporting period. The asset class, as measured by the Barclays U.S. Corporate High Yield 2% Issuer Cap IndeXi declined in June. After a brief rally in July, the high yield bond market again weakened in August, before again moving higher in September, October and November. All told, the high-yield bond market gained 2.61% for the six months ended November 30, 2013.

Q. How did the emerging market debt asset class perform over the reporting period?

A. The asset class generated poor results during the six months ended November 30, 2013. The asset class fell during two of the first three months of the reporting period. This weakness was due to a number of factors, including concerns over moderating global growth, fears of a hard landing for China s economy, generally weaker commodity prices and sharply rising U.S. interest rates. However, the asset class then rallied sharply in September and October, as the Fed did not taper its asset purchase program and investor demand increased. The asset class then declined in November as interest rates moved higher. Overall, the JPMorgan Emerging Markets Bond Index Global (EMBI Global<sup>iii</sup>)fell 3.89% during the six months ended November 30, 2013.

RISKS: Fixed-income securities are subject to credit risk, inflation risk, call risk and interest rate risk. An investment in the Fund is subject to investment risk, including the possible loss of the entire principal amount that you invest. As interest rates rise, bond prices fall, reducing the value of the Fund s holdings. The Fund may use derivatives, such as options, futures contracts, swap agreements and credit default swaps, which can be illiquid, may disproportionately increase losses and have a potentially large impact on Fund performance. Investing in foreign securities is subject to certain risks not associated with domestic investing, such as currency fluctuations, and changes in political, regulatory and economic conditions. These risks are magnified in emerging or developing markets. High yield bonds involve greater credit risk (risk of default) and liquidity risk than investment grade bonds. Leverage may magnify gains and increase losses in the Fund s portfolio.

All investments are subject to risk including the possible loss of principal. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. All index performance reflects no deduction for fees, expenses or taxes. Please note that an investor cannot invest directly in an index.
