Oil discovery in deep Angolan waters

(Rio de Janeiro, October 15, 2008). PETRÓLEO BRASILEIRO S/A - PETROBRAS, [Bovespa: PETR3/PETR4, NYSE: PBR/PBRA, Latibex: XPBR/XPBRA, BCBA: APBR/APBRA], a Brazilian international energy company, announces that an oil discovery has been made in Block 15/06, in deep Angolan waters.

The discovery was made in well N'Goma-1, which is located some 350 kilometers away from Luanda. Sonangol E.P. is the block's Concessionaire, while Eni Angola is the operator, with 35% stake.

Petrobras, via its Petrobras Internacional Braspetro B.V. subsidiary, holds a 5% stake on the block.

The other partners in the block are Sonangol P&P (15%), SSI Fifteen Limited (20%), Total (15%), Falcon Oil Holding Angola AS (5%), and Statoil Angola Block 15/06 AS (5%).

Well N'Goma-1 was drilled at a depth of 1,421 meters from the water line and at a total depth of 3,383 meters. The well is in a productive hydrocarbon zone, with 127 meters of highly permeable rocks. The oil that was extracted was tested and has an API gravity of 22.5°, above expectations and confirming the major potential of Block 15/06.

After the N'Goma-1 discovery, other wells will be drilled in neighboring structures aiming to evaluate the potential and to seek synergies for the development of the western portion of Block 15/06.

Petrobras kicked-off its operations in Angola in 1979. The company strongly believes on the country's potential and has investments in the order of $900 million planned for it for the 2008-2012 period, according to its latest Business Plan. Petrobras has its biggest foreign offshore exploratory well campaign going on in Angola, the company's fourth biggest individual investment abroad.
