Explanatory Note

This Amendment No. 2 on Form 10-Q/A (the “Form 10-Q/A”) amends the Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the period ended June 30, 2012, filed by AtheroNova Inc. (the “Company”), which was originally filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on August 14, 2012 and subsequently amended on March 29, 2013 (the “Form 10-Q”).

On June 15, 2012, the Company amended certain of its Senior Convertible Note and warrant agreements that were issued in 2010. The initial Senior Convertible Notes and warrants included an anti-dilution provision that allowed for the automatic reset of the conversion or exercise price upon any future sale of common stock instruments at or below the current conversion or exercise price. The amended notes and warrants removed the price-based anti-dilution provisions contained in the Senior Convertible Notes and warrants. The modification was initially accounted for as an extinguishment based on an error in a calculation of the change to the Beneficial Conversion Feature. Management has determined that the transaction should have been accounted for as a modification rather than as an extinguishment.

The Form 10-Q/A includes amended disclosure regarding the Company’s disclosure controls and procedures and internal control over financial reporting for the period ended June 30, 2012.

The Form 10-Q/A amends and restates the following items of the Form 10-Q as described above: (i) Part I, Item 4 – Controls and Procedures and (ii) Part II, Item 6 - Exhibits.

All information in the Form 10-Q, as amended by the Form 10-Q/A, speaks as to the date of the original filing of the Form 10-Q for such period and does not reflect any subsequent information or events except as noted in the Form 10-Q/A. All information contained in the Form 10-Q/A is subject to updating and supplementing as provided in the Company’s reports, as amended, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission subsequent to the date of the initial filing of the Form 10-Q.

Part I – Financial Information

Item 4. Controls and Procedures

Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and Procedures

In connection with the restatement of our financial statements for the fiscal quarter ended June 30, 2012, we carried out an evaluation, under the supervision and with the participation of our Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, of the effectiveness of the design and operation of our disclosure controls and procedures (as defined in Rules 13a-15(e) and 15d-15(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the “Exchange Act”). Based upon that evaluation, and in light of accounting errors related to the accounting treatment of the amendment of certain of our senior convertible notes and warrants that resulted in the restatement of our financial statements for the fiscal quarter ended June 30, 2012, our Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer concluded that our disclosure controls and procedures were not effective as of June 30, 2012 to ensure that information required to be disclosed in our reports filed or submitted under the Exchange Act is processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the SEC’s rules and forms.

Our disclosure controls or internal controls over financial reporting were designed to provide only reasonable assurance that such disclosure controls or internal control over financial reporting will prevent all errors or all instances of fraud, even as the same are improved to address any deficiencies. The design of any system of controls is based in part upon certain assumptions about the likelihood of future events, and there can be only reasonable, not absolute assurance that any design will succeed in achieving its stated goals under all potential future conditions. A control system, no matter how well designed and operated, can provide only reasonable, not absolute, assurance that the control system’s objectives will be met. Over time, controls may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or deterioration in the degree of compliance with policies or procedures. Further, the design of a control system must reflect the fact that there are resource constraints, and the benefits of controls must be considered relative to their costs.

Because of the inherent limitation of a cost-effective control system, misstatements due to error or fraud may occur and not be detected. These inherent limitations include the realities that judgments in decision-making can be faulty, and that breakdowns can occur because of a simple error or mistake. Controls can also be circumvented by the individual acts of some persons, by collusion of two or more people, or by management override of the controls.

Changes in Internal Control

Subsequent to the quarter ended June 30, 2012, and as a result of a material deficiency in our disclosure controls and procedures designed to ensure that information required to be disclosed by us in the reports that we file or submit under the Exchange Act is processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the Commission’s rules and forms, we implemented changes designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of our financial reporting and the preparation of our financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Specifically, our management has thoroughly reviewed and has gained fluency in the application of the relevant accounting guidance regarding accounting for derivative liabilities and modifications thereto, including, without limitation, EITF Issue No. 96-19, ASC 470-50-40 and ASC 815-15-35-4 (EITF 06-07). We believe that these steps are reasonably likely to materially improve our internal controls over financial reporting with respect to accounting for derivative liabilities and modifications thereto, and are reasonably likely to prevent a recurrence of the error that led to the restatement of our financial statements for the fiscal quarter ended June 30, 2012.
