THE VALUE LINE FUND, INC.

TO OUR VALUE LINE

TO OUR SHAREHOLDERS:

Despite the difficult environment for equity investment during the first six months of 2002 -- especially for investment in large-capitalization growth stocks -- we are pleased that your Fund narrowly surpassed the first-half return of the benchmark Standard & Poor's 500 Index (including reinvested dividends). The actual results are as follows:

	VALUE LINE FUND	S&P(1) 500
First half, 2002	-12.87%	-13.16%

The market we've encountered over the past several months has been shaped by an extremely negative psychological overhang, brought about by the unrelenting juggernaut of unfolding headlines. When the force of the Enron/Andersen imbroglio began to fade, Tyco International and its chairman were there to draw the attention. Other big companies, like General Electric and IBM, also fell under suspicion. Global Crossing joined the parade a little later, and then we got the news about WorldCom. In other words, the run of corporate malfeasance disclosures has thoroughly dispirited the marketplace, and enthusiasm is so difficult to jump-start because investors are terrified that there might be more shockers waiting in the wings.

This negative psychology is truly a shame, because the U.S. economy has shown some real recovery from levels almost everyone thought were the makings of a protracted recession. In terms of GDP growth, manufacturing, productivity, and several other segments of the economy, significant progress has been made over the first half of the year. (For more detailed information about our view of the economy, please read our "Economic Observations" nearby.)

The consumer has been the mainstay of the recent economy, and that's where we have been getting our best relative returns. Retail spending has remained vibrant, and we've had good returns from both general merchandise stores and some of the big-box specialty stores. Also, the weak stock market has prompted money to flow into the nation's housing stock, which is benefiting both the building supply sector and the large, nationwide homebuilders.

The market's travails over the past several months make forecasting its future course difficult, but let's try it. Let us assume that we've seen the end of the big corporate blowups, and that is definitely an assumption. As these situations filter out of the market's collective memory into the fall, investment fundamentals will again capture investors' attentions, especially because earnings comparisons should improve as we anniversary some weak results back in 2001. Under that scenario, stocks could begin trading higher later this year, and with interest rates low and inflation under control, it's entirely possible that 2003 could be a good one for investors.

We thank you for your continued confidence in Value Line, and we look forward to a more upbeat report on the second half of the year.

Sincerely,

/s/ Jean Bernhard Buttner

Jean Bernhard Buttner
CHAIRMAN AND PRESIDENT

(1) THE STANDARD & POOR'S 500 INDEX CONSISTS OF 500 STOCKS WHICH ARE TRADED ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE, AMERICAN STOCK EXCHANGE AND THE NASDAQ NATIONAL MARKET SYSTEM AND IS REPRESENTATIVE OF THE BROAD STOCK MARKET. THIS IS AN UNMANAGED INDEX AND DOES NOT REFLECT CHARGES, EXPENSES OR TAXES, AND IT IS NOT POSSIBLE TO DIRECTLY INVEST IN THIS INDEX.

ECONOMIC OBSERVATIONS

The U.S. economic recovery, which accelerated markedly earlier this year, has now moved back onto a slower, but, we believe, ultimately sustainable upward path. Our cautious optimism on the business outlook reflects the ongoing strength in such key sectors as housing and retailing, and the gradual emergence of the industrial sector from its deep slump. Also contributing to the likely sustained business expansion are continued low interest rates. The Federal Reserve, which put into effect a succession of interest rate cuts last year, now appears in no hurry to lift borrowing costs, even though economic activity is firming up. Overall, we expect the economy to expand by some 3% in the second half of this year and to then proceed at a similar pace in 2003. Our expectations assume that oil supplies will remain high enough, notwithstanding the continuing turmoil in the Middle East, and that equity prices will stabilize sufficiently so that consumers do not rein in their spending to any significant degree.

Inflation, meantime, remains muted, thanks, in part, to continued stable labor costs. Adequate supplies of raw materials are also helping to keep the costs of production low. We caution, though, that as the economy moves further along the recovery road over the next year or two, some modest increases in pricing pressures may evolve. Absent a more vigorous business recovery than we now expect, or a prolonged rise in oil prices, inflation should remain on the modest side through 2003, and perhaps beyond.

Finally, the Federal Reserve, which, as noted, had been aggressive in reducing interest rates in order to promote stronger economic activity, has completed its extended rate reduction cycle. We believe the Fed will now keep interest rates at current levels until well into 2003.

THE VALUE LINE FUND, INC.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (UNAUDITED)

1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Fund is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, as a diversified, open-end management investment company whose primary investment objective is long-term growth of capital.

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements.

(A) SECURITY VALUATION. Securities listed on a securities exchange and over-the-counter securities traded on the NASDAQ national market are valued at the closing sales prices on the date as of which the net asset value is being determined. In the absence of closing sales prices for such securities and for securities traded in the over-the-counter market, the security is valued at the midpoint between the latest available and representative asked and bid prices. Securities for which market quotations are not readily available or that are not readily marketable and all other assets of the Fund are valued at fair value as the Board of Directors may determine in good faith. Short-term instruments with maturities of 60 days or less at the date of purchase are valued at amortized cost, which approximates market value. Short-term instruments with maturities greater than 60 days at the date of purchase are valued at the midpoint between the latest available and representative asked and bid prices, and commencing 60 days prior to maturity such securities are valued at amortized cost.

(B) REPURCHASE AGREEMENTS. In connection with transactions in repurchase agreements, the Fund's custodian takes possession of the underlying collateral securities, the value of which exceeds the principal amount of the repurchase transaction, including accrued interest. To the extent that any repurchase transaction exceeds one business day, the value of the collateral is marked-to-market on a daily basis to ensure the adequacy of the collateral. In the event of default of the obligation to repurchase, the Fund has the right to liquidate the collateral and apply the proceeds in satisfaction of the obligation. Under certain circumstances, in the event of default or bankruptcy by the other party to the agreement, realization and/or retention of the collateral or proceeds may be subject to legal proceedings.

(C) FEDERAL INCOME TAXES. It is the Fund's policy to comply with the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies, including the distribution requirements of the Tax Reform Act of 1986, and to distribute all of its taxable income to its shareholders. Therefore, no federal income tax or excise tax provision is required.

(D) SECURITY TRANSACTIONS AND DISTRIBUTIONS. Security transactions are accounted for on the date the securities are purchased or sold. Interest income is accrued as earned. Realized gains and losses on sales of securities are calculated for financial accounting and federal income tax purposes on the identified cost basis. Dividend income and distributions to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date. Distributions are determined in accordance with income tax regulations which may differ from generally accepted accounting principles.

5. INVESTMENT ADVISORY CONTRACT, MANAGEMENT FEES AND TRANSACTIONS WITH AFFILIATES

An advisory fee of $956,000 was paid or payable to Value Line, Inc., the Fund's investment adviser (the "Adviser"), for the six months ended June 30, 2002. This was computed at the rate of .70% of the first $100 million of the Fund's average daily net assets plus .65% on the excess thereof, and paid monthly. The Adviser provides research, investment programs, supervision of the investment portfolio and pays costs of administrative services, office space, equipment and compensation of administrative, bookkeeping and clerical personnel necessary for managing the affairs of the Fund. The Adviser also provides persons, satisfactory to the Fund's Board of Directors, to act as officers and employees of the Fund and pays their salaries and wages.
