ITEM 1. REPORTS TO STOCKHOLDERS.

The Annual Report to Stockholders follows.

Dear Fellow Shareholders:

Performance Review: Consistent with its primary objective of current income, the Fund declared twelve monthly dividends of 6.5 cents per share during 2005. The Fund also included an additional one-half cent per share in the final dividend of the year (a 7 cent per share dividend paid in January 2006). This was the fourteenth [extra] dividend in the last eighteen years. Please refer to the portion of this letter captioned [Board of Directors Meeting] for more information about the Fund's dividends.

The 6.5 cent per share monthly rate, without compounding, would be 78 cents annualized, or a 7.51% common stock dividend yield based on the December 30, 2005, closing price of $10.39 per share. That yield compares favorably with the year-end yields of 3.18% on the Dow Jones Utility Index and 3.33% on the S&P Utilities Index.

Your Fund had a total return (income plus change in market price) of [6.2% for the year ended December 31, 2005. In comparison, the S&P Utilities Index had a total return of 16.8% . A composite of the S&P Utilities Index and the Lehman Utility Bond Index, reflecting the stock and bond ratio of the Fund, had a total return of 13.8% .

On a longer-term basis, as of December 31, 2005, your Fund had a five -year cumulative total return of 45.4% . In comparison, the S&P Utilities Index had a total return during that period of [10.7 % , while a composite of the S&P Utilities Index and the Lehman Utility Bond Index, reflecting the stock and bond ratio of the Fund, had a total return of [1.0 % .

Why was the Fund's performance different from the S&P Utilities Index last year? One reason for the divergence is a consequence of the Fund's focus on income. Your Fund's primary investment objectives are current income and long-term growth of income. Therefore, the Fund's yield relative to other types of fixed-income investments plays an important role in investor demand for Fund shares and in setting its market price. This means your Fund's share price is affected by the interest rate environment and the fixed income markets. From mid-year 2004 through January 2006, the Federal Reserve (Fed) has raised short-term rates 14 times. These increases have had the effect of increasing the yield available on 1-month Treasury Bills, for example, from a multi-decade low of just less than 1% to over 4%. This, in turn, raises the attractiveness of shorter-term yields relative to longer-term yields and investor expectations for further increases in rates. Utility equities with higher yields, and to some extent the Fund itself, are viewed by many investors as having longer-term yield characteristics. Although the yield of your Fund remains well above many alternative investments, rising interest rates on fixed income vehicles tends to reduce the linkage between Fund performance and the Utilities Index. Our outlook for Fed policy and interest rates can be found in the section below.

Another reason your Fund has performed differently from the S&P Utilities Index during the past year is related to energy prices, particularly natural gas. The interaction of supply and demand conditions has led to a sharp rise in the price of natural gas. Supply is less abundant due to declining conventional gas reserves and production, as well as interruptions in the flow of gas out of the Gulf of Mexico after hurricanes Katrina and Rita. At the same time, demand has risen due to higher usage of gas in the generation of electricity for residential use and industrial production. In turn, high commodity prices have driven up electricity prices, which benefits those utilities that have excess low-cost coal and nuclear capacity or own uncommitted generating capacity that can be sold into the current high-priced unregulated wholesale market. Cyclical growth investors have gravitated to these commodity-exposed, unregulated utility companies, providing those companies greater share price gains than a typical dividend-paying, regulated utility. Commodity prices have had similar impacts in the past, for example in 2000, when higher commodity prices and other factors benefited the equities of utilities involved in unregulated generation and power trading, while higher-yielding distribution utilities lagged.

Most utilities with significant exposure to high commodity prices pay lower than average or no dividends. Your Fund managers view commodity-sensitive companies as a very cyclical component of the utility sector that in the current environment is enjoying peak earnings that may not be sustainable and do not represent high-quality earnings available for dividends. For this reason, the Fund has steered away from companies that are exposed to volatile commodity prices. However, those companies are well-represented in the S&P Utilities Index, which is a further reason for the divergence between the Fund and the Index.

The Economic Environment and Expectations: The U.S. economy continued its multi-year string of solid economic growth during 2005. Gross Domestic Product over the four quarters averaged 3.1% □below the pace of 2004, but above the long-term average. Corporate profits continued to expand at a robust pace, a strong housing market enhanced the net worth of individuals, and the employment situation was sound and inspired consumer confidence.

Strong economic fundamentals did not translate into high capital market returns, however. The S&P 500 had a total return of only 4.9% and the Merrill Lynch Domestic Master Bond Index only 2.6% . One factor affecting returns was a concern on the part of investors that the regional impact of hurricanes and high energy prices might curtail the ability of consumers to continue spending on other goods and services, thus slowing the national economy. In addition, investors had to consider the potential negative effects of geopolitical turmoil and expanding budget and trade deficits.

Probably the biggest worry for investors was the Fed's ongoing actions to remove the stimulative monetary policy that prevailed from 2001 to mid-2004. Although the most recent monetary policy action was widely anticipated, investors were anxious to see whether the language accompanying the rate increase would suggest a change in the outlook for further Fed action on interest rates. The statement did include significant changes but made it clear that □some further measured policy firming was likely.□ Differences from prior release language, however, indicate that the Fed feels the tightening cycle is mature and that future actions will be dependent on upcoming inflation data. The source of inflation, according to the Fed, could be elevated energy prices and high resource utilization. In other words, the Fed is concerned that the economy is operating near full capacity, which puts upward pressure on input prices. The Fed's approach to controlling inflation is to slow economic activity by increasing its cost through higher interest rates.

Fed policy actions affect the shape as well as the level of the Treasury yield curve□the graphical representation of interest rates on government obligations of increasingly longer maturity. Under □normal□ conditions the yield curve is upward-sloping□longer maturity investments earn higher yields. Upward-sloping yield curves are sometimes explained by the □investor preference□ or □bond risk premium□ theory. Investors require a higher return on longer maturities because they are more volatile in price and have more liquidity risk.

The investor preference explanation of yield curve shape is intuitively appealing; it is only a small step further to consider whether the yield curve might represent a specific forecast for interest rates. For example, a rational investor who desires to invest his funds for two years might forego 2% annual interest on a two-year note but accept 1% for one year if he expected that after one year he could reinvest for the subsequent year at 3% or higher. This is sometimes referred to as the "pure expectations" theory of yield curve shape. This approach implies that when the yield curve is upward-sloping, investors expect rates to rise by a specific amount in the future. Likewise, when the yield curve takes the relatively infrequent downward-sloping or inverted shape, investors expect rates to fall. Finally, when the yield curve is flat, investors anticipate rates will not change in the future.

A great deal of research has shown that the shape of the yield curve is a very poor tool for forecasting specific future interest rates. However, research also shows that there is a strong relationship between an inverted yield curve and future economic growth. Every recession since 1960 has been preceded by an inverted yield curve. As of January 23, 2006, the yield curve was very flat. The three-month Treasury bill, 2-year Treasury note, and 10-year Treasury note all had a 4.35% yield. During the 1990's there were two times when the yield curve became very flat but did not invert, and economic activity continued without pause.

Your Fund managers believe that the Fed's monetary tightening cycle will likely draw to a close near mid-year and, although the yield curve is flying warning flags, we do not believe there is a recession on the horizon. Some utilities may be behaving like cyclical growth stocks due to high energy prices but, more importantly, we expect selected traditional regulated utilities to consistently pay and grow their dividends in almost any economic environment. It is from the latter group that stocks will be selected for your Fund.

At the February Board meeting each year, the Fund's analysts present utility and REIT industry trends and outlooks. A review of specific issues affecting those industries based on those presentations will appear in our next quarterly letter to you. The graph below is a presentation of your Fund's investments summarized by sector as of December 30, 2005.

At the regular February 2006 Board of Directors meeting, the Board declared the following monthly dividends:

Cents Per Share	Record Date	Payable Date

6.5	April 28	May 10
6.5	May 31	June 12

The determination of the character of all Fund distributions (specifying which portion is ordinary income, qualifying dividend income, short or long term capital gains, or return of capital) is made each year-end and is reported to shareholders on Form 1099-DIV, which is mailed every year in late January or early February.

Your Fund's Form 1099-DIV was mailed in early February. All companies, including mutual fund companies, send Form 1099s to investors to furnish certain information necessary to prepare their tax returns. A Form 1099 includes many items of information, such as ordinary dividends, capital gains, qualified dividends, non-taxable distributions, federal income tax withheld, foreign tax paid and foreign source income, if any. The calculations underlying the form have become quite complex and need to be completely accurate.

Because a mutual fund is a company that invests in other companies, it can only produce its 1099s after it receives tax information from all of the companies in which it invests. Since the same January 31st deadline for sending out 1099s applies to all companies, unless every company in which the Fund invests sends us its tax information early, we cannot send an accurate form to you by January 31st. This year, because of the timing of the tax information received by the Fund, your Fund managers were unable to send you a complete 1099 by January 31st. We were faced with the choice of mailing you an incomplete 1099 by January 31st and then mailing a corrected 1099 later, or filing for an extension with the IRS and mailing you a single accurate 1099 as soon as it was ready. Your Fund managers, feeling that you would prefer receiving a completely accurate form, took the latter approach. We apologize for any inconvenience the delay might have caused.

At the February 2006 meeting, the Board reviewed the Fund's dividend policy and reaffirmed the current 6.5 cents per share per month dividend rate. Interest rates remain historically low, despite recent Federal Reserve actions, and utility common stock dividends are well below their long-term average. Since 2004, the Fund has made increased use of realized gains to supplement its investment income and has reduced its use of short-term trading strategies designed to capture dividend income. Until the Fund utilizes all of its tax loss carryforwards, realized gains distributed to shareholders are treated as ordinary income for tax purposes.

In recent years, we have mentioned the possibility that a portion of the Fund's common stock distributions might be characterized as return of capital distributions rather than ordinary dividend income for tax purposes.

Edgar Filing: DNP SELECT INCOME FUND INC - Form N-CSR

Mutual funds sometimes make dividend payments that do not represent either investment earnings or capital gains. When you receive this type of distribution, you are considered to be getting back some of the money you invested. That is why these payments are called return of capital distributions. Many investors, and the IRS, also refer to return of capital distributions as nontaxable distributions because they are nontaxable. Return of capital distributions appear in box 3 of Form 1099-DIV, labeled "Nontaxable distributions." During fiscal year 2005, the Fund made a small return of capital.

When you receive a return of capital, you are getting some of your investment back, so the cost basis of your shares goes down. Your cost basis is important because it is a measure of how much you have invested in your shares and it is used to measure how much gain or loss you have if you sell shares. Typically, a cost basis adjustment is made by taking the amount in box 3 of Form 1099-DIV and subtracting that amount from the total cost basis of your shares. Since every shareholder situation is unique you should contact a tax consultant with questions.

- (1) Upon the adoption of FAS 150 in 2003, dividends on preferred stock are included in interest expense and are part of net investment income. Absent this change in accounting, per share net investment income and dividends on preferred stock would have been $.47 and $.06, respectively in 2005, $.58 and $.03, respectively in 2004 and $.78 and $.03, respectively in 2003.
- (2) Beginning in 2004, the Fund reduced its use of short-term trading strategies designed to capture dividend income and made increased use of realized gains to supplement its investment income. Until the Fund utilizes all of its tax loss carryforwards, distributions to shareholders derived from such realized gains will be treated as ordinary income for tax purposes. In addition, the reduced use of short-term trading strategies reduced the Fund's portfolio turnover rate during 2004 and 2005.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
December 31, 2005

(1) SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES:

DNP SELECT INCOME FUND INC. (the "Fund") was incorporated under the laws of the State of Maryland on November 26, 1986. The Fund commenced operations on January 21, 1987, as a closed-end diversified management investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940. The primary investment objectives of the Fund are current income and long-term growth of income. Capital appreciation is a secondary objective.

The following are the significant accounting policies of the Fund:

(a) Equity securities traded on a national or foreign securities exchange or traded over-the-counter and quoted on the NASDAQ System are valued at the last reported sale price or, if there was no sale on the pricing date, then the security is valued at the mean of the bid and ask prices as obtained on that day from one or more dealers regularly making a market in that security. Fixed income securities are valued at the mean of bid and ask prices provided by an independent pricing service when such prices are believed to reflect the fair market value of such securities. Such bid and ask prices are determined taking into account securities prices, yields, maturities, call features, ratings, and institutional size trading in similar securities and developments related to specific securities. Any securities for which it is determined that market prices are unavailable or inappropriate are valued at a fair value using a procedure determined in good faith by the Board of Directors. Short-term investments having a maturity of 60 days or less are valued on an amortized cost basis, which approximates market value.

(b) Repurchase agreements are fully collateralized by U.S. Treasury, U.S. Government Agency and other investment grade securities. All collateral is held by an independent third-party custodian bank on behalf of the Fund until maturity of the repurchase agreement. Provisions of the agreement provide that the market value of the collateral plus accrued interest on the collateral is greater than or equal to the repurchase price plus accrued interest at all times. In the event of a default or bankruptcy by the other party to the agreements, the Fund maintains the right to sell the underlying collateral securities at market value; however realization and/or retention of the collateral may be subject to legal proceedings.

(c) It is the Fund's policy to comply with requirements of Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies and to distribute substantially all of its taxable income to its shareholders. Therefore, no provision for Federal income taxes is required. The Fund intends to utilize provisions of Federal income tax laws which allow a realized capital loss to be carried forward for eight years following the year of loss. At December 31, 2005, the Fund had tax capital loss carry forwards of $251,042,613 of which $38,794,764 will expire in 2010 and $212,247,849 will expire in 2011. These capital loss carryforwards will be reduced by future realized gains, whether or not distributed (see Note 4). The Fund incurred net losses associated with certain securities in November and December of $147,908 which will be deferred for tax purposes and treated as if they were incurred on January 1, 2006.

At December 31, 2005, on a tax basis, the Fund had undistributed net investment income of $0 and based on a $3,010,132,491 tax cost of investments, gross unrealized appreciation of $362,153,165 and unrealized depreciation of $83,919,490. The difference between the book basis and tax basis of distributable earnings and cost of investments are primarily a result of tax deferral of wash sale losses, the accretion of market discount and amortization of premiums and alternative tax treatment of certain securities.

(d) Security transactions are recorded on the trade date. Realized gains or losses from sales of securities are determined on the specific identified cost basis. Dividend income is recognized on the ex-dividend date. Interest income and expense are recognized on the accrual basis. Discounts and premiums on securities are amortized over the lives of the respective securities for financial reporting purposes. Discounts and premiums are not amortized for tax purposes.

(e) The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of increases and decreases in net assets from operations during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(2) MANAGEMENT ARRANGEMENTS:

The Fund has engaged Duff & Phelps Investment Management Co. (the "Adviser") to provide professional investment management services for the Fund and has engaged J. J. B. Hilliard, W. L. Lyons, Inc. (the "Administrator") to provide administrative and management services for the Fund. The Adviser receives a quarterly fee at an annual rate of .60% of the average weekly net assets of the Fund up to $1.5 billion and .50% of average weekly net assets in excess thereof. The Administrator receives a quarterly fee at annual rates of .25% of average weekly net assets up to $100 million, .20% of average weekly net assets from $100 million to $1 billion, and .10% of average weekly net assets over $1 billion. For purposes of the foregoing calculations, "average weekly net assets" is defined as the sum of (i) the aggregate net asset value of the Fund's common stock (ii) the aggregate liquidation preference of the Fund's preferred stock and (iii) the aggregate proceeds to the Fund of commercial paper issued by the Fund. Directors of the Fund not affiliated with the Adviser receive a fee of $25,000 per year plus $2,000 per board meeting, plus $1,500 per committee meeting attended. Committee Chairmen receive an additional fee of $5,000 per year. The chairman of the board receives an additional fee of $50,000 per year. Total fees paid to directors for the year ended December 31, 2005 were $396,393.

(3) INDEMNIFICATIONS:

Under the Fund's organizational documents, its Officers and Directors are indemnified against certain liabilities arising out of the performance of their duties to the Fund. In addition, in the normal course of business, the Fund enters into contracts that provide general indemnifications to other parties. The Fund's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown as this would involve future claims that may be made against the Fund that have not yet occurred. However, the Fund has not had prior claims or losses pursuant to these contracts and expects the risk of loss to be remote.

(4) DIVIDENDS:

The Fund declares and pays dividends monthly. The amount and timing of distributions are determined in accordance with federal income tax regulations, which may differ from U.S. generally accepted accounting principles. Distributions from and in excess of net investment income on the Statements of Changes in Net Assets consists of ordinary income distributions for federal income tax purposes. Ordinary income distributions for federal income tax purposes include distributions from net investment income and distributions derived from realized gains, until the Fund utilizes all of its tax loss carry forwards.

DNP SELECT INCOME FUND INC.
December 31, 2005

The tax character of all Fund distributions to common shareholders in 2004 and 2005 was as follows:

	Ordinary Income	Return of Capital
2004	$175,074,595	$ 0
2005	$167,196,945	$7,616,135

Due to inherent differences in the recognition and distribution of income and realized gains/losses under U.S. generally accepted accounting principles and for federal income tax purposes, permanent differences between book and tax basis reporting have been identified and appropriately reclassified on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The reclassifications primarily relate to premium amortization and capital loss carryforwards utilized for current year distributions. These reclassifications have no impact on the net asset value of the Fund. At December 31, 2005 the following reclassifications were recorded:

	Accumulated net realized loss on investments	Distributions in excess of net investment income
Paid-in Surplus
$(45,026,020)	$(41,303,518)	$86,329,538

(5) REMARKETED PREFERRED STOCK:

In 1988, the Fund issued 5,000 shares of Remarketed Preferred Stock (RP) in five series of 1,000 shares each at a public offering price of $100,000 per share. The underwriting discount and other expenses incurred in connection with the issuance of the RP were recorded as a reduction of paid-in surplus on common stock. Dividends on the RP are cumulative at a rate which was initially established for each series at its offering. Since the initial offering of each series, the dividend rate on each series has been reset every 49 days by a remarketing process. Dividend rates ranged from 2.00% to 3.70% during the year ended December 31, 2005.

The RP is redeemable at the option of the Fund on any dividend payment date at a redemption price equal to $100,000 per share, plus accumulated and unpaid dividends. The Fund is required to maintain certain asset coverage with respect to the RP, and the RP is subject to mandatory redemption if that asset coverage is not maintained. Each series of RP is also subject to mandatory redemption on a date certain as follows: Series A November 28, 2012; Series B November 18, 2015; Series C November 7, 2018; Series D December 22, 2021; and Series E December 11, 2024.

In general, the holders of the RP and of the Common Stock have equal voting rights of one vote per share, except that the holders of the RP, as a class, vote to elect two members of the Board of Directors, and separate class votes are required on certain matters that affect the respective interests of the RP and the Common Stock. The RP has a liquidation preference of $100,000 per share plus accumulated and unpaid dividends.

(6) COMMERCIAL PAPER:

The Board of Directors has authorized the Fund to issue up to $200,000,000 of Commercial Paper Notes (the Notes) in minimum denominations of $100,000 with maturities up to 270 days. The Notes generally will be sold on a discount basis, but may be sold on an interest-bearing basis. The Notes are not redeemable by the Fund nor are they subject to voluntary prepayment prior to maturity. The aggregate amount of Notes outstanding changes from time to time. The Notes are unsecured, general obligations of the Fund. The Fund has entered into a credit agreement to provide liquidity. The Fund is able to request loans under the credit agreement of up to $100,000,000 at any one time, subject to certain restrictions. Interest rates on the Notes ranged from 2.60% to 4.54% during the year ended December 31, 2005. At December 31, 2005 the Fund had Notes outstanding with a par value of $200,000,000 and had received proceeds of $197,255,382.

(7) INVESTMENT TRANSACTIONS:

For the year ended December 31, 2005 purchases and sales of investment securities (excluding short-term securities) were $734,242,683 and $790,912,215, respectively

The Fund may lend portfolio securities to a broker/dealer. Loans are required to be secured at all times by collateral at least equal to the market value of securities loaned. The Fund receives a portion of the income earned on the securities held as collateral and continues to earn income on the loaned securities. Security loans are subject to the risk of failure by the borrower to return the loaned securities in which case the Fund could incur a loss. At December 31, 2005 the Fund had loaned portfolio securities with a market value of $659,052,519 and received $683,471,220 of cash collateral. This cash was invested in securities as shown in the Schedule of Investments.

(8) SUBSEQUENT EVENT:

On December 22, 2005, the Fund filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission for the registration of one or more additional series of preferred stock having an aggregate liquidation preference of $300,000,000.

Information about Directors and Officers of the Fund (unaudited)

Set forth below are the names and certain biographical information about the directors and officers of the Fund. The following table provides information as of December 31, 2005 regarding the other accounts besides the Fund that are managed by the portfolio managers of the Fund. As noted in the table, portfolio managers of the Fund may also manage or be members of management teams for other mutual funds within the same fund complex or other similar accounts. For purposes of this disclosure, the term "fund complex" includes the Fund and all other investment companies advised by affiliates of Phoenix Investment Partners, Ltd. ("PXP"), the Adviser's parent company. As of December 31, 2005, the Fund's portfolio managers did not manage any accounts with respect to which the advisory fee is based on the performance of the account, nor do they manage any hedge funds.

- (1) Registered Investment Companies include all open and closed-end mutual funds. For Registered Investment Companies, assets represent net assets of all open-end investment companies and gross assets of all closed-end investment companies.
- (2) Other Pooled Investment Vehicles include, but are not limited to, securities of issuers exempt from registration under Section 3(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, such as private placements and hedge funds.
- (3) Other Accounts include, but are not limited to, individual managed accounts, separate accounts, institutional accounts, pension funds and collateralized bond obligations.

There may be certain inherent conflicts of interest that arise in connection with the portfolio managers' management of the Fund's investments and the investments of any other accounts they manage. Such conflicts could include aggregation of orders for all accounts managed by a particular portfolio manager, the allocation of purchases across all such accounts, the allocation of IPOs and any soft dollar arrangements that the Adviser may have in place that could benefit the Fund and/or such other accounts. The Adviser has adopted policies and procedures designed to address any such conflicts of interest to ensure that all management time, resources and investment opportunities are allocated equitably. There have been no material compliance issues with respect to any of these policies and procedures during the Fund's most recent fiscal year.

Compensation of the Fund's Portfolio Managers

The following is a description of the compensation structure, as of December 31, 2005, of the Fund's portfolio managers. The Fund's portfolio managers receive a competitive base salary, an incentive bonus opportunity and a benefits package.

Each portfolio manager is paid a fixed base salary, which is determined by PXP and is designed to be competitive in light of the individual's experience and responsibilities. The management of PXP uses compensation survey results of investment industry compensation conducted by an independent third party in evaluating competitive market compensation for its investment management professionals.

The incentive bonus package for portfolio managers is based upon how well the individual manager meets or exceeds assigned goals and a subjective assessment of contribution to the team effort. Their incentive bonus also reflects a performance component. The performance component is based in part on achieving and/or exceeding income targets underlying the Fund's ability to pay common stock dividends, and in part on performance relative to a composite of the Standard & Poor's Utilities Index and the Lehman Brothers Utility Bond Index reflecting the stock and bond ratio of the Fund. The performance component is further adjusted to reward investment personnel for managing within the stated framework and for not taking unnecessary risks. This ensures that investment personnel will remain focused on managing and acquiring securities that correspond to the Fund's mandate and risk profile. It also avoids the temptation for portfolio managers to take on more risk and unnecessary exposure to chase performance for personal gain.

Incentive bonus compensation of the Fund's portfolio managers is currently comprised of two components: 75% of the incentive bonus is based on the pre-tax performance of the Fund, as measured by earnings per share and total return over a one-year period, and 25% of the incentive bonus is based in the overall pre-tax profitability and investment return of The Phoenix Companies, Inc. (☐ PNX☐), the ultimate parent of PXP and the Adviser, over a one-year period. For the year 2005, the Fund☐s portfolio managers have been guaranteed that they will receive no less than 80% of the incentive bonus available under the above formula. The portfolio managers☐ incentive bonus compensation is not based on the value of assets held in the Fund☐s portfolio, except to the extent that the level of assets in the Fund☐s portfolio affects the advisory fee received by the Adviser, and thus indirectly the profitability of PNX.

Finally, portfolio managers may also receive PNX stock options and/or be granted PNX restricted stock at the direction of the PNX board of directors. To date no portfolio manager of the Fund has received awards under the PNX restricted stock units long-term incentive plan.

Highly compensated individuals are eligible to participate in a long-term incentive plan to defer their compensation and realize tax benefits. Compensation under the long-term incentive plan is payable in restricted stock units of PNX, which vest over three years.

Portfolio managers are also eligible to participate in broad-based plans offered generally to the firm☐s employees, including broad-based retirement, 401(k), health and other employee benefit plans.
