the exclusive right and license to transport, display, exhibit, market, promote and distribute the service to residential and commercial customers served by EchoStar's distribution platform in the United States. The Company has agreed to develop a unique version of its application software which is compatible with and compliant to EchoStar's specifications. Unless earlier terminated, the Agreement will terminate one year from November 18, 2004. However, EchoStar has the right to renew the Agreement in two consecutive one-year terms. EchoStar may collect revenue for the Company's service through the sale of advertising, sponsorships and subscriptions. The Company will receive a percentage of all such net revenues from the service.

Either party may terminate the Agreement upon the occurrence of any of the following events of default, provided that such default is not cured within 45 days: (a) the other party has made any material misrepresentation; or (b) the other party is in breach or default of any representation, warranty, covenant, duty or obligation under the Agreement. The Agreement will terminate automatically upon the occurrence of any of the following events: (a) the other party becomes insolvent or seeks relief under any insolvency statute, is placed in receivership or liquidation, or makes any assignment for the benefit of creditors; (b) the other party, for more than 20 consecutive days, fails to maintain operations as a going business; or (b) the other party falsifies any documents, records or reports required hereunder or engages in or commits any fraud or illegal action in connection with the Agreement. If the Company's software application fails to perform in accordance with its specifications, EchoStar must allow the Company to cure such failure within 10 business days. In the event the Company has not rectified such failure, EchoStar may suspend its performance under the Agreement and terminate the Agreement in its sole discretion. EchoStar may terminate the Agreement immediately upon notice to the Company: (a) in the event that governmental authority or regulation prohibits distribution of the service in a licensed territory; or (b) if EchoStar determines, in its sole discretion, that continued distribution of the service by EchoStar is likely to result in civil or criminal liabilities, fines, or other similar sanctions or penalties. Upon termination of the Agreement, EchoStar must cease any use, distribution or solicitation of the Company's service under the Agreement and EchoStar must return all confidential information including source code provided to it within 14 days of termination.
